SUMMARY OF REVISIONS

This document is substantially revised and must be completely reviewed.

1. Mission. The mission of the Air Force Logistics Management Agency (AFLMA) is to conduct studies and analyses that support the Air Force Long Range Plan and logistics strategic plans published by the Joint Staff/J4, DUSD(L), HQ USAF DCS/Installations and Logistics and MAJCOM Directors of Logistics. The AFLMA develops, evaluates, and recommends new or improved policies, procedures, and systems to achieve the Air Force core competency, Agile Combat Support, and to enhance the efficiency and effectiveness of Air Force logistics. The AFLMA serves as the Air Force clearinghouse for logistics studies and analysis and publishes the Air Force Journal of Logistics. This organization is a field operating agency of the United States Air Force and is located at Maxwell Air Force Base, Gunter Annex, Montgomery, Alabama.

2. Command. The AFLMA Commander:

- 2.1. Serves under the direction of the Director of Plans & Integration, Deputy Chief of Staff, Installations & Logistics, Headquarters United States Air Force (HQ USAF/ILX).
- 2.2. Accepts and completes taskings from any member of the Air Force Logistics Board of Advisors (BOA), within available resources.
- 2.3. Chairs the Logistics Studies and Analysis Advisory Group (LSAAG), which is chartered to encourage a partnership between the AFLMA, other Air Force organizations, and the private sector engaged in logistics studies and analysis.

3. Responsibilities:

- 3.1. Manages a multi-disciplinary professional staff in logistics studies and analyses.

- 3.2. Reports results of studies and analyses to the appropriate BOA member requesting the work and to the Director of Plans and Integration (HQ USAF/ILX).
- 3.3. Establishes a partnership with the Standard System Group (SSG) to support the development of GCSS.
- 3.4. Coordinates with faculty and students at the Air Force Senior NCO Academy, the Air Command and Staff College, and the Air War College to provide support to logistics seminars and research.
- 3.5. Provides periodic program and project reviews to HQ USAF/ILX.
- 3.6. Serves as the Air Force clearinghouse for logistics studies and analysis.
 - 3.6.1. Maintains selected WEB sites to support logistics research and analysis.
 - 3.6.2. Interfaces with the Defense Technical Information Center (DTIC).
- 3.7. Publishes the Air Force Journal of Logistics.
